Boost your Employee Engagement & Social Collaboration with SAP SuccessFactors & itelligence

How do you engage and keep the communications flowing between employees?

Forced to cope under extraordinary circumstances, businesses are now becoming virtual organisations and managing remote workers as the new norm. Employee engagement is more important than ever with the need to solve problems faster and drive results by connecting people to the right information and processes. Virtual working demands co-operation and the ability to extract value, especially from social collaboration tools.

Employees also expect social collaboration tools to be in place to share and communicate either work-related matters or just to keep in touch with employees in a social setting (especially employees who were furloughed). Your employees need to access information quickly and easily from any location. They want to master challenges together with their colleagues by breaking the barrier of remote working!
